GENERAL NEWS.

A Connecticut Millionaire Assumes a Philanthropic Task.

A MILLION DOLLARS FOR EDUCATION OF NEGROES.

A Disastrous Explosion at Baltimore. Twelve Persons Killed by the Bursting of a Boiler.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Norwich, Conn., April 12.—John F. Slater of this city, has signified his intention to create a fund of $1,000,000 to be known as the John F. Slater fund, for the education of freedmen, the fund to be vested in a board of trustees, which includes ex-President Hayes, Chief Justice Waite, Wm. E. Dodge of New York, Gov. Colquitt of Georgia, Jas. P. Boyce of Kentucky and Wm. A. Slater, the donor's son. Slater explains: "The general object is the uplifting of negroes and their posterity by conferring on them the blessings of a Christian education. The disabilities suffered by this people and their singular patience and fidelity in the great crisis of the nation, established a just claim on the sympathy and good will of humane and patriotic men. I cannot but feel that compassion is due in view of their prevailing ignorance which exists, because of no fault of their own. If after thirty-three years three-quarters of the trustees shall for any reason agree there is no further use for the fund in the form instituted, Slater authorizes them to apply the capital to the new establishment, or foundations subsidiary to existing institutions of higher education, so as to make them freely accessible to colored students. Under the present institution of the fund he especially wishes that neither the principal nor income be expended in land or building for any other purpose than that of a safe and productive investment for income."

Adventures of the Chinese Minister.

New York, April 12.—The Chinese minister reached here last night en route to Spain. Being interviewed, he said: "American cities are the finest we have ever seen outside the Chinese empire. We have visited only three important cities, San Francisco, Washington and New York, since we have been here. San Francisco is something like Hongkong." The minister greatly admired the pavements, buildings and society of Washington. "The conduct of the little darkies of Washington provoke me very much. They used to follow us and shout 'Chinamen eat rats' and ridicule our cues." The minister does not like the streets of New York. While riding up Broadway to the hotel he said: "This is a wonderful city. It is better than San Francisco. We came from Washington unattended. We shall visit Governor's Island on Thursday and will receive our countrymen in this city. I have had three visitors, all of whom were reporters. We are very much pleased with the cordiality with which we have been received in America."

The Oregon Short Line Decision.

New York, April 12.—There seems to have been some mistake regarding yesterday's report of the secretary of the interior on the right of the Oregon Short Line Railway Company to locate its line on the previously located line of the Utah and Wyoming Railroad Company. The text of the decision shows that the prior location of the latter is admitted and confirmed. Secretary Kirkwood has permitted filing of maps of the Oregon Short Line Company in order to avoid deciding upon the competency of the trespass of the latter upon the right of way of the Utah and Wyoming Railroad Company, subject to which right maps of the Oregon Short Line are accepted.

The St. Joseph Bond Robbers.

Geo. M. Irwin and James Fisk, the St. Joseph city bond men, were arraigned this afternoon. The mayor, register and marshal of St. Joseph were present. The register and marshal addressed Fisk by the name of William Scott. They had with them a requisition from the governor of Missouri, and verified the affidavit of the register charging accused with being fugitives from justice. The prisoners were recommitted to the [illegible] instant to comply with legal formalities.

California Butter in New York.

A car load of about 20,000 pounds of grass fed butter from Point Reyes, California, dairy district was received by Jno. S. Martin & Co. of this city yesterday. The butter was churned about ten days ago and was six and a half days coming from San Francisco. It was packed in large flat boxes in ten pound rolls and will be forwarded for the southern trade.

Stocks Listed.

The governing committee of the stock exchange has placed on the regular stock list reorganization first lien bonds of the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad Co., debenture bonds of the Richmond & Danville Railroad Co., and Oregon Short Line Co.

Freaks of the Storm King.

Dallas, April 12.—A sudden and terrific hail storm occurred this afternoon; hail stones fell ten inches in circumference and sounded like the discharge of fire arms. Teams ran away in the streets and many persons were dangerously hurt. The aggregate damage is many thousands of dollars. Reports from neighboring towns show like destruction. At Lennison 2000 cattle stampeded, causing great consternation. It is feared there has been much loss of life and property.

Dallas, Tex., April 13.—The storm king after subjecting his section last evening to a hail storm unprecedented in severity, astonished the inhabitants this morning by a combination of rain and hail that completely eclipsed all previous efforts. For hours the water fell in torrents and the streets rivaled ordinary rivers. Every metallic roof was perforated and the leakage has done immense damage to stocks of goods. The total damage in Dallas is estimated at $150,000. The rain this morning flooded the basements of many business houses. The worst sufferers are the Daily Herald, damage to press and stock room contents, estimated at from $10,000 to $12,000; E. M. Fillmore, liquor store in the same building, similarly visited; estimates his loss at $8000.

A Hopeful State of Affairs.

Boston, April 13.—Private letters dated Irkutsk, Feb. 12, were received at Salem to-day by the family and friends of Raymond Newcomb, taxidermist on the Jeannette. The survivors are on the way from Irkutsk to St. Petersburg are near Angerstig, on the Siberian frontier. Newcomb writes that barring unavoidable delays the party will arrive in St. Petersburg the 1st of May. Lieut. Danenhower is improving rapidly and every member of the party has gained in health. The tone of the letter is very hopeful and cheering.

Assassination in Arkansas.

Little Rock, April 13.—News from the Newton county [illegible] Monday night states that Wm. Hayes, a farmer living at the foot of Gaither mountain, was awakened by the burning of a fodder-stack and ran out, when some one fired a double-barreled shotgun. The charge took effect, causing instant death. He was struck by slugs and buckshot in twelve places, and twenty-six shot were found in the boards and rails where he fell.

Shot his Son.

Cambridge, O., April 13.—John Nassell, a farmer of 65, living two miles west of this place, to-day shot his son Emett and then himself through the head, causing instant death. The elder Nassell a year ago deeded his farm to his son on condition he would maintain him and his mother during life. The son married and proposed building a new house. The father said he would kill him if he did, but the son paid no attention to the threat.

Wyoming Affairs.

Cheyenne, April 13.—Capt. Shearburn, one of the heroes of the Afghan war, and who was brought here from Texas on a requisition, the charge being obtaining money on false pretences, was discharged to-day after a lengthy examination. The long drouth which has threatened to destroy the cattle ranges has ended by a heavy snow storm, insuring good grass. It is estimated the snow is worth half a million to Wyoming.

Shot in a Difficulty.

Texarkana, Ark., April 13.—Judge Edwin Bancroft shot J. Holtz in the face and head with small shot to-day. The difficulty arose out of the active part Bancroft took in the prosecution of one Nuzzo, a fellow-countryman of Holtz, a few days ago in court. Holtz is not mortally hurt, but it is feared he will lose his eyes.

Wheat Crop of Western Iowa.

Council Bluffs, April 13.—The Nonpareil has reports of the wheat crop from western Iowa, which show that little winter wheat has been sown, but the prospect of spring wheat is very flattering. No locality reports less wheat sown than in 1 year and in some cases the acreage is 33⅓ per cent. greater.

A Serious Accident.

Baltimore, April 13.—By the explosion of a boiler in a corn chop mill on the corner of Fremont and Pratt streets this evening it is reported that twelve persons were killed and five bodies already recovered.

Sued for Damages.

New York, April 13.—Orlando B. Potter, owner of the old World building, recently destroyed by fire, has been sued by the proprietors of the Turf, Field and Farm newspaper, for $30,000 damages by losses sustained in burning of the building.

Fire at East Saginaw.

East Saginaw, Mich., April 13.—The sawmill, salt block and drill house of Phinue, Fisher & Co. at South Saginaw was burned to-day; loss, $15,000; insurance, $10,000. Two hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber owned by C. F. Moore, of St. Claire, was also burned; loss, $2000; not insured.

Plea Accepted.

Poughkeepsie, April 13.—Mosti, twice convicted of the murder of his wife and twice sentenced to death, was granted a third trial in the afternoon in the same court. His counsel plead guilty of murder in the second degree and the plea was accepted.

Fruit in Illinois Damaged.

Bloomington, April 13.—Dr. Herman Schroeder, recognized authority on fruit, says the damage to fruit throughout central Illinois is much greater than generally supposed.

A Horrible Story.

Detroit, April 13.—Rosa McCluskey tells a horrible story, which is believed true, that she was repeatedly outraged by five men during the whole of last night.

Chicago's Gambling Cases.

Chicago, April 13.—After a sealed verdict finding Hawkins and Jibbons guilty of gambling had been opened this morning another batch of gamblers was put on trial without a jury and testimony began. It is the intention of defendants to let the remaining cases go by default and appeal the whole question to the supreme court.

No Inducements for Women.

Boston, April 13.—The governing board of Harvard College voted 11 to 1 that it was not advisable for the university to give any assurance, or hold out any encouragement that it will undertake medical education of women by Harvard college in its medical school.

Cold Weather in Kentucky.

Louisville, April 13.—Remarkably cold weather continues and damage to fruit in this immediate vicinity is very great, according to all reports, and vegetation of every sort has been put back several weeks, except wheat, which is in very fine condition.

Presbyterian Resolutions.

Chicago, April 13.—The Chicago Presbytery passed resolutions thanking President Arthur for vetoing the Chinese bill, because it would prevent the conversion of the Chinese to Christianity and because it was contrary to the spirit of national institutions.

Railroad Notes.

Chicago, April 13.—The Tribune reports that the Chicago and Northwestern intends to build an extension to Denver, but says the intention is to push the system in the northwest and will even neglect Black Hills territory for the present. President Keep denies this report.

Stone Quarrymen's Strike.

Chicago, April 12.—One thousand quarrymen at Lemont are on a strike for a raise of wages from $1 60 to $2 a day. Employers consider the demand exorbitant and say they will close up their works if they cannot run themselves.

A Booming River.

St. Paul, April 12.—The pontoon bridge at Grand Forks, D. T., was carried away with a large boom of logs. Two hundred families were driven off the flats.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Bernhardt at Madrid.

New York, April 12.—Herald's Madrid: Sarah Bernhardt made her debut at the Theatre Royal in the presence of the king and queen and Infanta Isabella. There was a splendid audience. The tiers of boxes and pit were crowded with nobility, diplomats, men of letters, politicians and lovely creatures in rich toilets. Bernhardt obtained applause on her acting, especially after the third and fifth acts, and made a magnificent success. She deeply moved the audience, and cheers, vivas and bouquets abounded. Her husband is a poor performer. The chief topic of conversation between acts was the disastrous inauguration of the season of bull fights, where on two days in succession there was a fearful scene of excitement, many bulls were badly wounded and the celebrated bull fighter, Carancha, smashed his nose. On the second day a bull caught him near the barrier, tossed him up and gored him again and again. He was mortally wounded. Extreme unction was given him outside the bull ring, and he was carried home on a stretcher, followed by large crowds. Hundreds of all ranks visited his house, and the press is full of harrowing accounts.

Parnell's Whereabouts.

New York, April 12.—The Herald's Paris special says: Parnell's friends went to meet him at Gare du Nord this evening, but contrary to expectations he did not arrive by either the ordinary or the tidal train. Sexton, who is in Paris at present, telegraphed to London for news, but had received no reply this evening. Parnell's nephew, who is a son of Mrs. Thompson, was buried at 2 o'clock this afternoon at St. Germain. He was aged twenty-two, and died of typhus fever. If Parnell's sole object in applying for release was really to attend the funeral he will presumably now go quietly back to Kilmainham. Patrick Egan and several other leaguers waited for him all day at the Hotel de Lormandi.

Goldwin Smith on the Irish Question.

London, April 12.—Goldwin Smith writes to the Times, if British legislation and people would handle the Irish question with vigor, their determination would be applauded by nobody more than the great mass of American people as distinguished from politicians. Smith recommends abolition of jury trial in agrarian cases, collection of fair rents by summary process, suspension of representation in rebellious districts, suppression of murderous press, and special legislation concerning foreign emissaries, their governments being given fully to understand their position.

Catholic Resolution.

The Catholic clergy of the diocese of Cashel and Emly, passed a resolution pledging themselves to exert all their influence to prevent outrages, demanding cessation of coercion and eviction of tenants for arrears of rent, and also pledging themselves to co-operate with the people's representatives, with the object of securing an amendment to the land acts.

An Unreliable Rumor.

London, April 12.—The rumor of the sinking of the United States flagship Richmond is published here, among some of Lloyd's advices by mail, and evidently of a very old date. It is probable, therefore, the rumor now circulating is the same which originated in New York several weeks ago, from the misconstruction of an official paragraph about the non-arrival of the Richmond at Panama. The Richmond was reported as having arrived at Yokohama March 1.

Peruvian Annexation.

London, April 13.—The Times says Chili has struck its talons deep into the body of Peru and cannot disentangle them. The conquest and incorporation of Peru straightway in a victorious republic would interest one as well as the other, and will be preferable to the intolerable relation which binds them together now.

Dr. Lamson's Case.

London, April 13.—Dr. Lamson has written an account of his movements at about the time of his visit to Wimbledon just before the death of young John, but only states therein what has proved untrue. Defense obtained the evidence of four servants employed by the doctor while at Bournemouth. All depose as to eccentric acts on the part of the prisoner and to the belief that he is insane.

Sheffield's Exports to America.

London, April 13.—Official returns of the U. S. consulate at Sheffield state that exports to the United States for the quarter ending March 31st show an increase of £53,314. The improvement is chiefly in steel and steel rails.

An Egyptian Plot.

Cairo, April 13.—The government has been aware for some time of extreme discontent among the Circassian officers, who had intended to petition the government in regard to promotion and if unsuccessful to kill Arabi Bey. One of them having turned informer, nineteen others were summoned on various pretexts to the ministry of war, where they were arrested. Several carried concealed arms, and nearly all subsequently confessed they were in the plot. Reports that Arabi Bey was fired at and his house surrounded are untrue.

Jews Expelled from Moscow.

St. Petersburg, April 13.—Five thousand Jews were recently expelled from Moscow during the Easter holidays. The streets of Odessa were patrolled by troops and 700 persons, mostly without passports, were arrested the past few days. Apothecaries of Moscow have been ordered to cease practicing medicine.

King Alfonso Interviewed.

Madrid, April 13.—A deputation of the corporation of Barcelona had an interview with King Alfonso and protested against the adoption of the proposed treaty with France. The king assured the deputation of the interest he felt in the welfare of the Catalonian industries and promised to inform the cabinet of their demands. He adds he was above all things a constitutional monarch.

Copy Right Established.

Rome, April 13.—The chamber of deputies passed a bill establishing a literary and dramatic copy right.

NOVEL SURGERY.

Dividing Tendons to Give the Third Finger Freedom in Piano Playing.

Philadelphia correspondent Pittsburg Gazette.

An interesting surgical operation has just been performed by Dr. Forbes, of the Jefferson medical college of this city, which is of great importance in a scientific point of view. It is well known that musicians have had difficulty in using the third finger with that freedom of force necessary for skillful operation on the piano. This is for the reason that the tendons connecting with the second and fourth fingers form over that to the third, and act as a martingale, restraining it. Professor Zickown, in his researches for a remedy for this difficulty, consulted Dr. Forbes, after having failed of encouragement from other eminent surgeons. Dr. Forbes confidently asserted that the remedy would follow an operation. The musician had in his employ a mulatto who was expert in music, but who suffered the same difficulty that retarded others. This young man consented to have the operation performed. He was taken to the Jefferson Medical College Hospital. Two small incisions were made on the back of the left hand, on each side of the extension tendon and the accessory [illegible] on each side was divided. The effect was [illegible]. The finger was at once released from its constraint and given equal facility of stroke with the others, and its strength was increased rather than impaired. It is asserted that the hand will be in no wise deformed by the operation, while the effect to that pupils in music will be [illegible] the process will be an instant advanced several years in power and facility of operation on the instrument. The colored boy will submit his other hand to the operation in a few days. The success is exciting very marked interest in musical and scientific circles here and elsewhere.

We have witnessed the magical effect of St. Jacobs Oil in the most severe cases of rheumatism, and with all heartiness, pronounce it the greatest remedy in the market. [illegible] much, how [illegible] much of its good qualities, that I at last determined to try it. I must say it beats all my doctoring hollow. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil cured my boy of the rheumatism when all other remedies which I had tried failed."

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The New Chinese Bill Reported Favorably to the House.

PAGE WILL INTRODUCE IT ON MONDAY NEXT.

Chandler and Hunt's Nominations Confirmed and a Batch of new ones sent to the Senate.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, April 12.—The Graphic's Washington correspondent says: Pacific coast statesmen have decided to take a rational view of the Chinese matter and are going right to work to have another bill passed. Miller and Page have been in consultation with the president within a week, and the result is that they are confident they can frame a bill which will meet the president's approval and still be perfectly satisfactory and effective. The programme is to have it brought up first in the house. The committee on education and labor hope to agree on a new bill to-day, and then Page will try next Monday to secure its passage under suspension of rules, when Miller will at once call it up in the senate. Miller is confident he can get it through without much debate, and if the house will suspend the rules and pass it, he thinks he will have it once more before the president, before the close of next week.

Report of the Chinese Bill.

The joint labors of Senators Miller and Jones and Representative Page in framing a new Chinese bill were not ended until 12 o'clock last night and at 10:30 this morning Page submitted to the house committee on education and labor a copy of the measure thus privately devised, and asked the committee to authorize him to report it to the house next Monday for passage without amendment under suspension of the rules. Willis, of Kentucky, who also was associated with Page, and Carpenter, who was the democratic member of the sub-committee which had charge of the subject when it was under examination two months ago, protested against this proposed action unless an opportunity should be offered for a vote in the house on a substitute bill to provide for fifteen years suspension, with only a slight modification of the registration system. He said it was impossible for the committee to act intelligently on the bill just presented without further time to examine it. He doubted the efficiency of the registration system, and he was not in favor of merely throwing a tub to the whale but he was desirous of passing some measure that would afford genuine relief. He then spoke of the recent expressions of democrats of the Pacific coast delegation in favor of making the term of suspension not less than fifteen years, and quoted Commissioner Swift's remarks to reporters in California papers, that a ten years' suspension would be worse than none at all. Willis added that he himself would vote for a two years' suspension rather than obtain no suspension of Chinese immigration during this session, but he believed, in common with many others, that President Arthur would not dare to veto a fifteen years' bill, and he was fearful that if any attempts were made to crowd this new ten years' bill through the house and without allowing a vote to be taken on a fifteen years' amendment, the majority of the friends of the vetoed bill would revolt against the effort, and that nothing could be accomplished. He therefore earnestly suggested that, without allowing debate, the house should be given an opportunity to vote on such an amendment.

Page replied that he and his republican colleagues had ascertained beyond possibility of doubt that the president would not be willing to sign a bill for any longer term of suspension than 10 years, and that unless a 10 years' bill was promptly passed there would be extremely grave danger of a failure to pass any bill whatever on this subject during the present session of congress.

In response to a question by Willis, Page said he could not make a statement about the president's views upon the direct authority of the president, but he knew it was true.

After some further discussion a vote was taken upon Page's motion above indicated and the desired authorization was given to him by the vote of 6 republicans against 4 democrats, the fifth democratic member of the committee being absent.

The New Presidential Count Bill.

The new bill for the election of president and vice president provides that electors shall be chosen the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in every fourth year, except in cases specified in sections 147 to 149, revised statutes; that electors shall vote on the third Tuesday of December following their appointment, and that between the day of choosing electors and the day they are to vote, the title to the office of elector may be determined, which, if made by the highest judicial tribunal of the state having jurisdiction shall be conclusive; that congress shall be in session the second Wednesday in January next after the meeting of the electors, [illegible] the votes; that upon reading the certificates the president of the senate shall call for objections, which if any, shall be made in writing and shall state clearly and concisely with argument the ground thereof, and shall be signed by at least one senator and one member of the house of representatives before the same shall be received. In the event of controversy in any state as to the appointment or eligibility of electors, decision thereof by the highest judicial tribunal having jurisdiction [illegible] shall be conclusive, unless reversed by both houses; that if there be more than one judicial decision the two houses shall determine which shall be received; that when there has been a controversy in any state and no certified decision has been transmitted, or when two or more such certified decisions have been transmitted, the contested votes from such state shall not be counted unless both houses concur therein, and if there be several electoral certificates from any state and no such judicial decision, the certificate shall be held by both houses to be executed by proper authority and shall be conclusive; that if a result is not reached before the fifth calendar day after the first meeting of the two houses no further recess shall be taken by either house; that notwithstanding the decision and declarations mentioned the title to office of any person declared to be elected president or vice president, and the title of any claimant thereof may be tried and determined by action in the nature of quo warranto, and action may be brought prior to actual entry or usurpation, and must be commenced within ten days after declaration of election of defendant, in the circuit court of the United States for the district in which defendants or either of them reside.

Nominations and Confirmations.

Following are the more important nominations to-day: Geo. Maury, of Tennessee, minister to Bolivia; Wm. L. Scruggs, minister to Columbia; C. C. Andrews, of Maine, consul general to Rio Janeiro.

The senate confirmed W. E. Chandler, secretary of the navy; W. H. Hunt, minister to Russia; J. R. Partridge, of Maryland, minister to Peru; John H. Smith, of North Carolina, minister to Liberia; John J. Knox of Minnesota, comptroller of currency; U. S. attorney, D. B. Searle, for Minnesota; U. S. marshal, A. C. Botkin, for Montana. Chandler was confirmed by 28 yeas—24 republicans and 4 democrats—against 16 nays, all democrats. Only two formal speeches were delivered—by Bayard against, and Hollins for Chandler. The president nominated the following consuls: Jos. F. Swords, of the District of Columbia, at Trinidad; Saml B. Packman, of Pennsylvania, at Cologne; Geo. E. Hallock, of Indiana, at Hamburg, Germany; Theo. Carisus, of Illinois, at Apia; Thomas Adamson, of Pennsylvania, at Panama.

Dr. Lamson's Case.

Sixteen affidavits in Dr. Lamson's behalf have been sent to London by the attorney general per steamers Arizona, Abyssinia and City of Berlin. As none of these will reach London too late for examination before expiration of the reprieve, Secretary Frelinghuysen to-day telegraphed the substance of them to Minister Lowell, urging him to lose no time to bring them to the notice of Lord Granville. Dr. Winston says he had Lamson under treatment last year and found his mind to be greatly impaired from the excessive use of opium. The other affidavits all tend to show that Dr. Lamson's mind was impaired from the intemperate use of drugs. As early as 1877, according to one affidavit, Lamson showed a marked tendency toward insanity. It is said that Attorney General Brewster attaches great weight to this new evidence. It was brought to the attention of the London authorities, however, by McElroy as early as December, that Lamson was a victim of the morphine habit.

Land League Meeting.

At the land league convention to-day committees on resolutions and organization were appointed. John Boyle O'Reilly of Boston offered a resolution which recites the fact of the imprisonment of American prisoners in the English jails, quotes the language and dispatch of Minister Lowell and calls upon the president immediately to recall Lowell, and provides for the presentation of a resolution to President Arthur by the committee on resolutions. It was unanimously adopted amid cheers. The committee on credentials report 257 delegates present.

At the evening session the committee on organization presented P. A. Collins for president, who was unanimously chosen, together with a list of vice presidents, including Mrs. R. M. Spelinger, O'Donnell of the District of Columbia, secretary, delegates, O'Reilly and O'Brien. Fathers McMannis and Cronin were appointed a committee to present to President Arthur a resolution regarding the imprisonment of American citizens in Ireland. O'Brien, of New York moved that a vote of thanks be tendered President Arthur for his efforts made for the relief of imprisoned American citizens. [Hisses.] The president stated that under the rules the motion would go to the committee on resolutions without debate. [Applause.] A letter was read from Wendell Phillips [illegible]. Meeting adjourned till to-morrow.

Washington Notes.

Washington, April 12.—All the principal nominations made by the president have been confirmed today.

The senate passed the bill for the removal of the Southern Utes from Colorado into Utah.

Some of the strongest advocates of legislation for the suspension of Chinese immigration now admit the prospects of such legislation at this session are not encouraging. Democrats charge that the republicans are maneuvering to patch up a bill that will relieve them of censure on the Pacific coast, and that they are looking more to political effect than the benefit of the people, while the republicans charge the democrats with scheming to make capital, and secretly trying to prevent the passage of any bill. A senator said to-day he would not be surprised if the question should take a partisan shape.

The house Chinese bill, reported by Page, limits the term of suspension of immigration to ten years and provides that the act shall go into effect 90 days after passage. Republican members of the committee voted solidly for a 10 years clause. Willis and minority of the committee desire a suspension of 15 years and will file a minority report. Page will, Monday next, move suspension of rule to put the bill on passage.

White, from committee on elections, reported a resolution in the contested election case of Bailey vs Barbour of Virginia, declaring Barbour entitled to a seat.

The second annual convention of the national land league began this morning. Many Catholics were present.

Scoville has filed a petition asking congress to pay him for services in defending Guiteau.

It is stated on good authority that Consul Carter, of Venezuela has been recalled and John Baker, of Illinois, his predecessor, returns.

Minister Lowell will not now be recalled, as it would look like yielding to clamor.

Walker Blaine has been recalled and will probably tender his resignation on arrival.

Cobb's Forfeiture Bill.

In reference to Cobb's railroad land grant forfeiture bill it is not thought probable by members of the judiciary committee that any action can be reached on the matter the present session of congress, inasmuch as it will require a two-thirds vote to pass the bill if reported upon favorably by the committee, and members say it will be almost impossible to secure that much majority in the house.

To be Reported Favorably.

The house committee on the law respecting election of president and vice president agreed upon a bill to carry into effect the provisions of the constitution respecting the election of president and vice president of the United States, and directed the chairman to report the same favorably.

Special Agent Appointed.

Washington, April 13.—Secretary of the treasury has appointed John M. Hubbard of Chicago, special agent to Seal Islands, Alaska.

River Improvements.

The house committee on commerce has concurred in the plan submitted by the Mississippi river commission for work of improving its mouth and $4,3[illegible],000 has been agreed upon.

Shipherd's Testimony.

In Shipherd's examination, witness said, after all his interviews with Secretary Blaine he was profoundly impressed that the secretary was in sympathy with his company.

THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION.

Portland, April 13, 1882.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The present defective assessment law is receiving considerable airing from numerous correspondents, and I see you take a hand also. I am one of those who cannot assent to the proposition that is being industriously advanced, that real estate and tangible property should bear the burden of taxation, leaving money, notes and mortgages, and other evidences of debt, free. It seems to me that this is directly pandering to class legislation and building up an aristocracy of wealth with special privileges which is wholly undemocratic and an evasion of the fundamental law engrafted in our constitution. In section IX, article I, we read: "The legislative assembly shall provide by law for uniform and equal rates of assessment and taxation, and shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, both real and personal."

How are you to evade the plain letter of the law, and exclude those forms of property—moneys, notes, [illegible] and accounts from assessment and taxes? Of course it cannot be done except by changing the constitution. There are no classes of property that can easier bear the burden of taxation than the very ones you argue to exempt, because they come in that classification, which is the money itself, or its nearest affinity to money, with which taxes are to be paid. No one can easier pay taxes than the one who has money, and none harder than those whose properties are in real estate. There is no slogan more brave and honest than "uniform rates of taxation on all classes of property," and [illegible] casuistry and moral philosophy can overcome it.

The proposition that if money or its direct representatives were untaxed, interest would be relatively cheaper by one or two and a half per cent., carries the corollary that consequently the burden on real estate would be that much the greater, and it is demonstrably certain that there would be a material lessening in value of real estate everywhere in proportion to this extra burden heaped upon it. Imagine the broad and unctuous smile that would mantle the face of our canny Scotch uncle if taxes were taken off the money he has loaned to the suffering granger on long time, and the burden doubled on the lands. It is to just this predicament that exemption from taxation of moneys, mortgages, etc., leads to no relief to the borrower, but gratuities in abundance to the lender.

Another class of writers argue that there should be no exemption from indebtedness, because by reason of this clause there annually develops a large discrepancy between the items of indebtedness subtracted and the return of notes and debts due, which if all assessed were all honest would balance each other.

It is false philanthropy if some people will lie to so ameliorate their condition as to relieve them of the necessity of lying by conceding them everything, and it is an acknowledgment that this class are beyond the pale of hope to yield them the situation. I believe twenty lines of amended legislation to our present law can be made to cure this defect, as follows:

Enact that all assessments shall be made up of properties owned on the first Monday in March, at noon. This will prevent the trading of notes and other systems in vogue to cheat the assessor during the month or six weeks in which he is now supposed to be at the work of assessment, within which time all kinds of transfers may be simulated, to the detriment of the tax roll.

Enact that where a person claims exemption for indebtedness he shall make a sworn statement who he owes and the amount, and if it appears that any creditor is named in any other county it shall be the duty of the assessor to notify the assessor of such county that the person named claims exemption from taxation by reason of indebtedness due to the person named in such other county, and amount.

By this system of checks and balances it will be a simple method to determine who is contributing to the volume of lying we hear so much about. With this also enact a stringent law for any one who is found derelict in his statement, and [illegible] will be honestly done away and the [illegible] receive his just dues of deduction for indebtedness which his creditor must pay. I believe such an addendum to the present law would be instrumental in contributing the greatest good to the greatest number, which is the best attribute of law. G.

A WOMAN'S VOICE

Against the Logan Educational Bill—Alleged Arguments.

The senate committee on education and labor heard speeches against the Logan educational bill on the 31st ult. Among the speakers was Mrs. Ellen Foster, who is noticed in the local papers as a "distinguished and eloquent lawyer from Iowa." Her speech was an hour in length, and was delivered with considerable power. She commenced with the creation of civil society, and ended with the [illegible] Munchausen story from Africa, that the king of Ashantee has killed 200 young girls for the purpose of using their young blood to mix mortar for the repair of one of his state buildings. All the space into which a woman could compress between the garden of Eden and this African maiden slaughter were presented against the Logan bill. The speaker had something to say [illegible], but did not make it very clear what relation these metaphysical elements had to the educational bill. Whisky she understood to be "The gigantic crime of crimes," and in the name of the common griefs and common woes of humanity, she protested against educating children upon the basis of "whisky beverages." It would be, she said, as [illegible] to build a light-house upon the shifting sands of the Missouri bottom. Whisky, she said, was a "base monopoly, a compact of fiends in league with hell," [illegible]

The Chinese Coolie Trade.

San Francisco, April 12.—The Six Chinese companies are taxing the resources of commerce to provide shipping for further consignments of coolies. Late advices say the following steamers were advertised at Hongkong as about to depart for San Francisco and Portland: Bothwell Castle, Glamis Castle, Mary Tatham, Metapedia, Glenelg and Meath. Of these the first and fourth named are for San Francisco alone; the second and third in order are destined to Portland. These will all bring Chinese coolies within 60 days. In addition to this, advertisements are announced at Hongkong of the following crafts which will depart and arrive at their destination in the next 60 days: The ship Oneida for San Francisco; steamships Euphrates and Escambia, and ship Sumatra for Victoria, B. C.; and the ships Fritz and Importer, and barks Hannah W. Dudley, Wakefield, Colomia, Alden Besse and Edwin Reed for Portland, Oregon, loaded to their utmost limit. Eight steamers, four ships and five barks will load within three months hordes of Chinese for this coast.

The Chinese Removal Question.

San Francisco, April 12.—A meeting of the anti-Chinese committee of twelve, was held this evening. After discussion on the proposition to interview insurance companies to induce them to refuse risks in Chinatown, the committee adjourned until to-morrow evening, when a sub-committee, appointed to wait upon the judiciary committee of the board of supervisors to urge immediate action, will be ready to report. The judiciary committee of supervisors will meet at 10 A. M. Saturday, to consider the question of removal of the Chinese from within the city limits and have an address by the committee of workmen upon that subject. Supervisor Torrance of the Sixth ward, where the Chinese are principally located, expresses the view that the Chinese should be removed to a government reservation, or failing in this, suggest that the city set apart lands in the neighborhood of the city cemetery on which the heathens may erect their huts. This section, he thinks, should be guarded by police to prevent youths of the city from visiting it and becoming contaminated by the baneful practices of Chinese.

San Francisco Notes.

In consequence of the forgeries of John T. Best, recently sentenced to the state prison for ten years, the court of inquiry of the U. S. army is engaged in investigating the affairs of Lieut. Col. Williamson, chief engineer of the lighthouse service department.

The eighth ward, twelfth senatorial district, republican club held a large meeting this evening, at which resolutions were unanimously passed condemning President Arthur for vetoing the Chinese bill.

Closed by Creditors.

To-day the large warehouse of J. W. Floyd & Co. was closed by attachment, and is now in the hands of the sheriff. It is claimed the firm is guilty of perpetrating a gross swindle on creditors. A short time since Floyd & Co. borrowed $40,000 of the Nevada bank and $2[illegible],000 of the Pacific bank, giving as collateral receipt made out by the firm of immense quantities of flour stored in the warehouse. Subsequently it was ascertained a large quantity of flour had been removed without the knowledge of creditors. The loss to creditors is estimated at fully 50 per cent. The Nevada bank claim to be secured for the amount loaned, and the Pacific bank claim it will not lose a [illegible]. Floyd & Co. recently borrowed small amounts, giving receipts for wheat claimed to be stored. No arrest was made. The firm say they will be able to meet all obligations.

Knights Templar in Session.

This afternoon the grand commandery of Knights Templar of California met in this city. The following officers were present: Grand commander, Sir Edward R. Hedges; deputy grand commander, Sir Charles F. Lott; grand generalissimo, Sir William M. Petrie; grand captain general, Sir E. A. Rodgers; grand prelate, Sir J. C. Wheeler; grand senior warden, Sir Rollin C. Gaskell; grand junior warden, Sir John B. Luck[illegible]; grand treasurer, Sir James [illegible]; grand recorder, Sir Thos. H. Caswell; grand standard bearer, Sir Henry J. Burns; grand sword bearer, Sir Philip W. Keyser; grand captain of the guards, Sir James Oglesby. The conclave will be in session several days.

Salmon Pack Light.

The Sacramento river reports a very light run of salmon. The [illegible] to date on the Sacramento canneries [illegible]. This is a very [illegible] against the number packed for the time last year. Cannerymen account for the light run by excessive high water and its excessively muddy character.

The New Chinese Bill.

San Francisco, April 13.—The full text of the new Chinese bill, to be introduced by Page, is received, but few changes are made from the vetoed bill, as has already been [illegible] in these dispatches.

Festivities Cut Short.

Los Angeles, April 13.—Gen. Sherman and party, consisting of Gen. O. M. Poe, Col. J. P. Morrow, Miss Sherman and Miss Poe, arrived from Arizona this evening. A large crowd of citizens and the reception committee from Frank Bartlett Post G. A. R. were present at the depot to receive him. The committee boarded the car to give a formal reception, but were cut short by Gen. Sherman, who said he was tired and anxious to get to his hotel. He then jumped into the Cosmopolitan hotel coach, declining to occupy the barouche furnished by the committee, and was driven to the hotel. The party remain here till Tuesday. They will probably be tendered a reception by the G. A. R. during their stay.

ARTFUL MR. ARTHUR.

How he is Setting Things Up for a Second Term.

Henry Watterson to the Courier-Journal.

Washington, March 30.—It is generally understood and conceded that the current cabinet changes are a part of the president's prearranged and carefully-planned scheme to organize a personal following looking to his own nomination in 1884; but it is also generally understood that he is likely to find "Jordan a hard road to travel." Already the original difficulties of the situation, which Mr. Arthur handled so skillfully and seemed to have got over, are deepening and multiplying. The quarrel with Mr. Blaine is very pretty as it stands, but the selection of Mr. Chandler for secretary of the navy will deepen it. One of two things is sure to follow: either there will be, if there has not been, a break between Mr. Blaine and Mr. Chandler, which will inflame Mr. Blaine's already embittered feeling, or Mr. Blaine will have in the person of Mr. Chandler a spy in Mr. Arthur's camp which, when Mr. Arthur discovers it, will give him a motive and cue for resentment entirely absent from it [illegible] as matters are, for the president is full of confidence, thinks he has the party in a sling and is disposed to make light of Mr. Blaine's [illegible]. The development of the issue will [illegible] show that, though the president is an old [illegible], Mr. Blaine is an older, and that Mr. Blaine's rough-and-tumble fighting qualities are at least a match for Mr. Arthur's smooth and dexterous use of the tomahawk and scalping-knife.

Meanwhile, however, the slaughter of Blaine men, and Sherman men, goes on under the immediate supervision of Gen. Grant, who is helping to stuff the gullet with victims, and to fill the places vacated with reliable Modocs. The machine is equally busy and unrelenting—"Put none but [illegible] on guard" is the word, which, interpreted by Gen. Grant, means a third term, by Arthur, a second. At present the two are jointly interested in killing off Blaine and Sherman by bribing, seducing, intimidating, crippling or destroying the rank-leaders in the party. After this is successfully accomplished the president and the general can settle with each other, provided there be any differences or outstanding accounts.

In other respects and apart from its political significance, the nomination of Mr. Chandler for secretary of the navy is regarded by fair-minded men as an outrage upon the public service. Mr. Chandler is an expert and unscrupulous trading politician; he represents nothing but the machine. A keen Yankee, who came to Washington about the close of the war, he has made a fortune by claim practice before the departments, a smart, bitter and active partisan he has made himself useful in emergencies which require grit and skill, as in Florida in 1876 which he snatched from the democrats and turned over to the republicans, by the shrewdest and corrupt manipulations of an expert. He is a cultivated man of good address and amiable deportment, but a heart one of the most sinister [illegible]. Yet he will be confirmed. There are democrats in the senate who think the president should be free to select his own advisers, [illegible]

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

Washington, April 12.

The senate took up the bill allotting to the southern Utes agricultural lands in or near the Uintah reservation, Utah, instead of those heretofore provided for in the vicinity of La Plata river in Colorado and New Mexico. The committee amendment, requiring the consent of the Uintahs to removal and settlement, was stricken out after a statement by Teller that this band held no title to this reservation, and that the committee erred in assuming otherwise. Further amendments allow the Utes to receive their annuities either in cash or stock, as the Utes are paid. Bill passed.

The senate bill referring to the court of claims for adjudication the claim of Geo. E. Payne for alleged wrongful seizure and occupation of his sugar plantation in St. Charles parish, La., in '60 under orders of Gen. Butler passed.

Sewell presented a petition of 978 army officers praying for passage of the bill for compulsory retirement at the age of 62 years. Among the signatures are those of Brev. Maj. Gens. Howard, Crook, Hazen, Wilcox, Stanley, McCook, Newton, Hatch and McKenzie; Brev. Brig. Gens. Brackett, Bradley, Brooke and Tompkins; Cols. Andrews and Wood, 27 lieutenant colonels, 72 majors, 71 captains, 307 first lieutenants and 300 second lieutenants; referred to military committee. Adjourned.

House.

Bills were introduced by Page to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to the Chinese; placed on house calendar.

Several speeches were made and the committee rose.

The committee on appropriations were instructed to report a further measure of relief for sufferers by floods in the Mississippi and tributaries. Adjourned.

THE NORTHWEST.

Southern Oregon.

The vessel built lately at North Bend has been named "Good Morning."

Mrs. Peter Ulrich, an old resident of Empire City, died at that place last week of apoplexy.

The school room at Southport has a complete set of Camp's physical outline maps and also Wilson's charts, the best in Coos county.

Mr. Barker, foreman at Southport coal mine, has 26 miners and 9 other workmen employed on and about the mine, some on the night shift. He is driving a new tunnel to strike a lower lift some 100 yards east of the old gangway, whence they now take the coal. The new tunnel is in sandstone and is now in 76 yards from the entrance.

Eastern Oregon.

A Good Templar's lodge has been organized at Cove, Union county, with twenty members.

The foreign money orders issued at the postoffice in The Dalles during the year ending March 31, 1882, amounted to $4,062 65. The most of this was sent to Great Britain, but Germany received a considerable portion. The increase in the amount of stamps sold in the office during the year ending March 31, 1882, over the year ending March 31, 1879, is $2,538.10.

The first sermon ever preached in The Dalles was delivered by Rev. G. W. Berry in 18[illegible] at the house of Mrs. McFarland. A Methodist class of five was organized at that time, of whom the lady named is the only one now living. The price of lumber in those days was $40 per thousand, making the cost of the very primitive parsonage built soon after $730.

The cattle drive from Eastern Oregon this year will not be so large as that of former years, for the reason that the country has been drained of all surplus stock, and the western market is nearly as good as the eastern. E. S. Newman, of St. Louis, Mo., has purchased in Union and Baker counties, and in the Weiser country, in Idaho, 15,000 head. They will be driven during the summer to his winter ranch on the Sweet Water, in Kansas. J. B. Arthur, of Greeley, Colorado, has purchased 4000 head in Union and Baker counties. These will also be on the trail as soon as grass grows.

Washington Territory.

The military reservation at Fort Walla Walla contains 612.93 acres.

The hills about Dayton were white with snow on the morning of the 10th.

Eggs went up in Seattle last week to 28 and 30 cents per dozen; potatoes, on the other hand, fell a quarter of a cent on the pound.

A lodge of Chosen Friends was organized at Walla Walla on the 10th inst. with a fine membership. It is to be known as "Whitman No. 8."

The insurance adjusters left Dayton people well satisfied. C. P. Ferry adjusted 33 losses in four days. There were eight others at work. The losses by insurance companies will approximate $20,000.

The prospects of the Washington colony at Whatcom are good, and the colonists generally are satisfied. Many of them are busy fencing, clearing, etc. The mill enterprise is being carried forward favorably, the colonists having three years in which to complete their part of the contract.

Yakima Record: A large tract of land in the vicinity of Priests Rapids will be sown to fall grain by the E. W. D. Co. and by private individuals. They will herd stock off the same, and demonstrate the feasibility or otherwise of a "no fence" law. A solid settlement will extend from Yakima City to Priests Rapids by January 1883. Yakima and Spokane counties will hold the balance of power in the future capital contest, and must locate it at Priests Rapids.

Idaho.

Lewiston is going to build a $10,000 school house. The money is to be raised on bonds.

The Hailey public school has had an average daily attendance of 45 pupils throughout the winter.

Dr. Miller's hospital at Warm Springs, near Hailey, will be enlarged to accommodate 28 patients this spring.

The mail is now being carried regularly from Mount Idaho via Salmon, to Warrens. The section of the route next to Warrens is carried on snow shoes. T. Clay carries the mail on snow shoes from Warrens to the Weiser.

The tax levy for Nez Perce county this year is 17 mills—4 for territorial purposes, 5 for school purposes, 5 for county purposes, 1 for bridge and 1 for hospital. This is a reduction from that of last year of 5½ mills upon the dollar.

John Brearley, of Lewiston, is breeding and raising hogs on quite an extensive scale. His grounds are divided into different compartments, each having good shelter, feed and water arrangements. In these several apartments he has at present about 600 head of all sizes. He lost about 150 young pigs during the cold weather. The feed is principally the bran from the mill.

A good purgative medicine is one of the absolute necessities of the age. This want has been supplied by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., whose celebrated Cathartic Pills are known to be the safest, surest and best purgative medicine ever offered to the public. They are mild but certain in their effects and keep the system in good condition.

THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION.

A writer whose contribution we print today, "cannot assent to the proposition that real estate and tangible property should bear the burdens of taxation, leaving money, notes, mortgages and the evidences of debt free." This is not a correct statement of the case. No one has proposed to exempt money from taxation; though as matter of fact very little money will ever be found. Again, real estate and other tangible property do bear the burden of taxation now and always must, and notes and mortgages, though nominally subject to taxation, are virtually free. Every effort to fix the charge on the money lender fails, and always will fail. If his notes and mortgages are subjected to taxation he will make the rate of interest high enough to cover it; so that in fact he is not taxed at all. People easily deceive themselves on this subject, deriving gratification from the idea that they are making the money lender, the holder of notes and mortgages, bear his share of taxation, when in fact it is a simple delusion. They are not making him pay anything, nor ever can. They are only giving him opportunity to advance the rate of interest on the presumption that he will be obliged to part with a share of it the form of taxes. But the presumption is seldom verified. In one way or another the credits are concealed, and the result is that interest is kept at a high rate, while only an insignificant part of the taxes are ever collected. This is the uniform and invariable result in every state where the attempt to tax credits is made. Only tangible property can, in fact be reached, and its burdens therefore would not be increased by abandonment of the effort to tax property in its intangible forms. A note or mortgage is in fact only an evidence of a right to another's property; it is not that property itself. All the property that actually exists is there to be taxed. It is the property real and personal—the tangible and visible property, before the assessor's eyes. Credits therefore should not be regarded as property in the constitutional sense, for the purposes of taxation. Nothing is gained and much [illegible] by it.

But it is said that the money lenders would be [illegible] and the land holder oppressed, if the credits were exempted from [illegible], and the latter were [illegible] on his land. The statement carries a double fallacy. First, the money lender is virtually exempt [illegible] and second, since he pays no appreciable share of the taxes the land holder's share would not only not be [illegible] not be perceptibly increased, while reduction of interest would give him a positive advantage which he does not possess now. Deduction of indebtedness might be allowed to continue for the benefit of the debtor upon all notes and mortgages hitherto given under the present system and consequently bearing a high rate of interest; or, what would better answer the purpose, the amendment as to exemption of credits and deduction of indebtedness could go into effect say one or two years after the enactment. In the amendments for the assessment law proposed in the contribution referred to we have no confidence whatever. In one way or another they will be evaded. No device ever yet employed to tax intangible property has succeeded, and deduction of indebtedness has only the effect of increasing the very inequalities of taxation complained of, by providing a method through which one-half the tangible property escapes. In this state there are thousands of men of good property who keep in debt for the express purpose of obtaining a deduction which shall reduce their valuation to little or nothing. Every one knows that it is one of the huge evils of our present system, and no amendment of the assessment laws will be of any real value which does not abolish it.

It is a plain [illegible] undertaking in which the member of the legislature engages when he resolves to relieve the debtor of his burdens and to make his creditor bear them. The expedients employed in the effort to compel the lender to accept a low rate of interest and to pay taxes at the same time are numerous, and most industriously pursued; but they invariably fail. Every new device of the law he employs to his own further advantage. Your statutes do not hamper him at all. They simply add to the difficulties of the borrower and debtor. The capitalist who lends money and takes mortgages is not at all dissatisfied with the law as it now stands. It increases his opportunities for gain. He is able to make more money than he possibly could if there were no usury law and no effort to tax his loans. If these statutes were all repealed, so there were assurance that loans and credits would be unburdened, the abundance of money now in our state competing for investments would carry the rate of interest down at once to 5 or at most 6 per cent.—a result which would be a greater boon to debtors than ever was afforded them by all the attempts ever made to tax credits and to reduce the rate of interest by positive enactment.

JUMPING FROM TRAINS.

The supreme court of Michigan has rendered a decision in a case which interests a large number of persons who travel by rail—those who are not careful to observe all the little rules and regulations laid down by the companies for the safety of passengers. During a political excursion on the Lake Shore railway, made on a special train, a passenger jumped from one of the cars while the train was passing a station at which all trains were accustomed to stop. He acted upon the presumption that the train was running at no greater speed than six miles an hour, as the ordinance prohibited a higher rate of speed at that particular place. It was dark, and the passenger, instead of reaching the ground in safety, was thrown violently down and one of his feet was crushed, which necessitated amputation. The passenger subsequently entered suit for damages for the loss of his foot, and the company defended on the ground that the injury was the result of his own indiscretion. The plaintiff claimed that he had a right to infer, first, that the train would stop at the station; and, second, that it would not run at a speed above that limited by law. If it had stopped, of course he would have sustained no injury. If it had observed the law in regard to speed, he would have been reasonably safe in jumping off, according to the testimony. The plaintiff, in a case like this, naturally had the sympathy of the jury, and the verdict was in his favor. The case was taken to the supreme court, where the judgment was reversed and a new trial awarded. The point in this case which most interests those who travel by rail is this: The jury found that the plaintiff had not been negligent and did not contribute to his own injury in jumping from the train. The supreme court said he was so negligent as to defeat his right to recover any damages whatever. After quoting the language of the plaintiff that persons frequently jump on and off the trains while in motion, the court said:

> We have reluctantly felt ourselves compelled to hold that in our judgment such conduct is, beyond any question, negligence, and that the jury should have been so instructed. The fact that many persons take the risk of leaving cars in motion does not make that any the less risk, which they have no right to lay at the door of the railroad companies. No company can use effectively coercive powers to keep passengers from doing such things, and all persons of sound mind must be held responsible for knowledge of the usual risks of such traveling.

The court held that the agents of the company were wrong in not stopping at the station, but for this inconvenience experienced by the plaintiff there was a legal remedy. The excitement and vexation of the plaintiff, on finding that he was being carried past his stopping place, did not justify his rushing into bodily danger. The hardship of the case was admitted, but on this point the judge said: "The courts cannot permit the hardship of particular cases to change the rules that they are compelled to administer." The negligence of the complainant deprived him of any legal redress, and the defense of the company was declared valid and sufficient, the injury having been caused by the unjustifiable conduct of the plaintiff. It is as well for all persons to remember that if they persist in standing upon the car platforms, thrusting their heads or arms from car windows, jumping from the trains while in motion, or in disobeying any of the rules which the railway companies have made for the protection of limb and life, are not entitled to recover damages for injuries thus sustained. Even when the agents of a company are in the wrong, and neglect to discharge a passenger at the proper place, he cannot take the risk of leaping off while the cars are in motion and then hold the company responsible for any injury he may sustain. There is no doubt whatever that the opinion of the higher court is sound, and the principle upon which the law is based should not be lost sight of by those who travel by rail. The safe rule is never to take any risks that can possibly be avoided. There is a good deal of need of these reminders to many who travel on Oregon roads, and who are not so careful as they ought to be.

A FRAUDULENT TARIFF BILL.

Instead of dealing with the tariff question directly as it ought congress has passed an act to create a commission to "investigate" the subject. It is apparent that this is only a device to postpone tariff reform. The protectionists have it their own way. Both parties in congress are controlled by monopoly interests. In the senate Mr. Bayard, who has very intelligent views on the subject which he has lost no opportunity to present and enforce, confessed that his party, during the six years it controlled the house of representatives, had done nothing on the subject, and showed why. "The clash of opinions," said he, "had prevented any bill on the subject coming from the ways and means committee of the house," when it was democratic, while, he added, "the present organization of that committee was such as to make it idle and absurd that a measure tending to a reduction of duties could originate there." That is, the monopolists managed to control the action of both parties. Senator Allison, a republican, attacked the bill to create a commission, showing that under pretense of inquiry it meant delay till the next congress. Everybody knows this to be true. Senator Van Wyck, another republican, did likewise. He improved the opportunity afforded by Mr. Allison's truthful statement that "we sat here with a democratic majority in the house of representatives for six years, with the complaints about the tariff reiterated over and over, in speeches that would fill volumes, and yet the tariff remains to-day virtually as it stood at the close of the war in 1865," by asking whether "the failure of the democrats to do their duty justified the present republican majority in postponing tariff revision until another congress, under cover of a commission." That question no senator undertook to answer, for obvious reasons. So the fraudulent commission bill was passed by the emphatic vote of 38 ayes to 15 nays, all amendments having been rejected. Every senator knows that the bill is a fraud, but those who voted for it wanted to do something that had the appearance of being in response to the general demand for a revision of the tariff.

The bill, as we learn from the comments of the New York Mail, provides for a commission of nine members, to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate, who are to receive as compensation for their services $10 per day, when actually employed, and traveling and other necessary expenses. They are to investigate all the various questions relating to the agricultural, commercial, mercantile, manufacturing, mining and other industrial industries of the United States so far as the same may be necessary to the establishment of a judicious tariff or revision of the existing tariff and the existing system of internal revenue laws upon a scale of justice to all interests, and are to report to congress from time to time and to make a final report not later than the first Monday in January, 1883. If any additional proof of the fraudulent nature of the bill were needed, it would be afforded by the compensation allowed to the commissioners. Of course, no man with the special knowledge and ability requisite for the investigation of our tariff system would serve for $10 a day, unless he had some special interests under the tariff to protect or was paid by those who had. Imagine an expert like David A. Wells serving as commissioner for $10 a day! But perhaps the low compensation was part of the scheme to prevent tariff reform. It looks that way.

Next week the republican state convention will be held. There is a good deal of speculation as to candidates. Since the declination of Mr. Thompson from the candidacy for governor the persons most commonly named for that honor are Mr. Beekman of Jackson, Mr. Moody of Wasco and Mr. Hare of Washington—though we do not know that either of them desires it. Possibly the man who will receive the nomination has not yet been prominently named. There seems to be no doubt that Mr. George will be renominated for congress. It is admitted that he has shown a laudable industry and tact, and that he has made a beginning which gives promise of good service to the state. We ought to stop our habit of superseding men in congress just as they begin to acquire the experience necessary to make them serviceable. Mr. George's fitness being so generally admitted, it may be doubted whether there will be any opposition to his nomination. Mr. Earhart as secretary of state and Mr. Hirsch as treasurer have given excellent satisfaction. Their faithful performance of official duty has won for them the approval and confidence of those who appreciate honest and efficient service. With Gov. Thayer (who, by the way, got no word of commendation from the democratic convention), they have given the state a very good administration, and if candidates for re-election, might well be continued in office. It may be supposed that Judge Lord will be renominated for the supreme bench. Probably he will have no competitor. He has filled the position acceptably both to the people and the bar. As to the prospects of the election, it may be said that though the state in the presidential contest of 1880 was closely contested by the two parties, and though allowance is to be made by the republicans for the effect of the veto of the Chinese bill, yet from five to eight thousand more votes will be thrown this year than ever before in the state, and it is believed by men of both parties that this new vote will show a preponderance of republican strength. So large an increase of voters may, indeed, give unexpected and even surprising results.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

PORTLAND, April 13.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Among the many political topics for the approaching election, I have not observed anything written on the subject of a registration law—one requiring every voter to register, by a certain number of days before election, his name, residence and where he intends to vote. Such a regulation would not be unconstitutional, but would be in harmony with much that is already the law. All the principal states have such laws. It is the only practicable means of preventing unqualified voting and "repeating," and tends greatly to put an end to bribery. It has now become necessary in this state. That such a law is needed you have admitted repeatedly.

"The transaction of Monday was not an election; it was a market. The votes of honorable citizens counted for nothing. What was counted was the two and a half and five dollar pieces furnished by the bosses of the ring."—Daily Oregonian, Wednesday, June 22, 1881.

Men who will sell their votes will repeat, and men who will do either are not [illegible] to consider whether they are legally qualified to vote, or hesitate, if challenged, to commit perjury. Then why not make such a statute one of the main issues in the coming election, write about it, put it in the "platform," and require every legislative candidate to come out either for or against the proposition, and thus give voters a chance to elect men pledged to work for such a statute.

CLATSOP COUNTY RESOLUTIONS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ASTORIA, April 12.

The republican county convention to-day passed the following resolutions:

Resolved by the republicans of Clatsop county, in county convention assembled, That we learn with profound regret of the veto of the anti-Chinese bill by Chester A. Arthur, the acting president of the United States, so much in opposition to the well-known views of the republican administration of the late lamented President Garfield.

Resolved, That the republican party has ever shown itself to be the friend and protector of the industrial interests of the nation, and the trusty advocate of the working classes; and,

Resolved, That the said veto meets with our unqualified disapproval, being in direct opposition to the policy of the republican party on this coast, and we denounce it as unwise, and condemn the policy which prompted it; and,

Resolved, That we hereby express our most sincere commendation to all the representatives from the Pacific coast, and especially to our energetic representative, Hon. M. C. George, for their untiring advocacy of the anti-Chinese bill.

Whereas, Congress in the year 1870 granted to the Oregon Central railroad company each alternate section of the unoccupied lands between Astoria and the Willamette valley for the purpose of building a railroad from Forest Grove to the mouth of the Columbia river, and

Whereas, Said alternate sections of land have been withdrawn from the public lands. And

Whereas, No portion of the road between Forest Grove and Astoria has been built and the time for completing said road expired six years ago. And

Whereas, The settlement of said portion of the country is delayed, and the material interests of the lower Columbia as well as the whole Willamette valley and state of Oregon are thereby injured. Therefore,

Resolved, That said grant should be immediately declared forfeited and restored to the public domain, and that we demand of our representatives in congress their ceaseless and untiring efforts to that effect.

Wages Under our "Glorious Protective System."

New York Sun.

The struggle of five thousand operatives against two and a half million dollars of capital still goes on at Lawrence—a struggle begun by girls on ninety cents a day, who didn't want to be reduced to sixty-eight, and who were joined by other workwomen and workmen, who had been treated to a like bitter dose. The women who struck first did so as individuals, having no organization which could order them to strike. Nevertheless, when, without any such protective organization, they chose a committee of mill hands, who selected a delegation of three messengers, not of strikers, nor of employes of any sort, but the mayor of Lawrence, the cashier of one bank and a director of another to visit the treasurer and plead with him for justice, he turned back this embassy to the local superintendents as being the proper officials to deal with. These superintendents, fulfilling their part in the arrangement refused to treat with anybody but their own work people. Finally, when the latter sent a committee of their own, they received the harsh terms of unconditional surrender—work at the reduced wages, or the shutting down of the mills.

No Doubt of It.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The New York Herald says that the Chinese will have no trouble in finding homes in British Columbia after hoodlums and demagogues have forbidden them to land on the Pacific coast of the United States. Perhaps they may not for a while, but there is no reason to doubt that the British Columbians will one of these days show as much hostility to Chinese immigration as the British colony of New South Wales, which will not admit them.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes, and in spite of all the surgical aid I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse, until at length I became helplessly blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was under the treatment of two oculists of considerable repute. One was a professor of diseases of the eye, and I remained under his care one month, but continuing to get worse, I changed to another so-called specialist, to find I was only jumping out of the frying-pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, [illegible] street, San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first, and I continued to improve day by day, until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild, different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. I insert this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee and without his knowledge to let any similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyes cured, as I have been through the mill and speak from a sad experience. m31d6w HENRY HARRISON.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon much excitement was raised in East Portland by a boy rushing into Dr. Rafferty's office and telling him to hurry out to the Base Line road, where the powder house had exploded and Mr. Wm. Beck and his team blown to pieces. Dr. Rafferty immediately repaired to the scene of the supposed explosion, but found the powder house still standing. A short distance from the house Mr. Beck was found lying in the road in an insensible condition, with his scalp cut open the full length of his head. He was soon after taken to his home, on the corner of Ninth and Main streets, in this city, where his wounds were examined and dressed. In addition to the scalp wound the left side of his face and body is severely cut and bruised. Soon after he was taken home he had a painful hemorrhage from the stomach. About three hours after the accident he recovered consciousness and complained of a great pain in the region of his bowels. He said that when the accident happened he was en route to the powder house, when a wheel came off his buggy and the horse ran away. He was caught in the vehicle by some means and dragged until he lost consciousness. He luckily has no bones broken, and with good medical attendance and proper care it is thought he may recover.

"HOODLUM HARRY" DEAD.—There seems to be some curiosity to know who Harry Henrichsen, or "Hoodlum Harry," is, that was pardoned from the penitentiary the other day. Who or what he is cannot be said, but the name "Hoodlum Harry" does not properly belong to him, but to another Harry Henrichsen, who was stabbed to death in San Francisco last January. Harry Mordaunt, who is now in the penitentiary, is also known by his associates as "Hoodlum Harry." However, the person known to the police authorities under this name was the Henrichsen in San Francisco.

REDUCED FARE FOR DELEGATES.—Arrangements have been made by the chairman of the republican central committee by which delegates to the republican state convention to be held in this city April 20th, can procure special tickets to Portland and return at a reduction of 40 per cent. by exhibiting to the agents of the O. & C. R. R. and O. R. & N. Co. along the line of their roads a certificate from the officers of the county convention to the effect that they have been elected delegates. Tickets will be good from April 18th to 21th inclusive.

COLONY FROM MINNESOTA.—M. C. Thielman, of Wabasha county, Minnesota, has spent several weeks on the northwest coast, viewing the country with the intention of selecting a place for farming, and bringing out a colony from Minnesota. He is most favorably impressed with the country in the vicinity of Walla Walla, and has purchased some land in Walla Walla county. He leaves on the outgoing steamer this morning, and upon arriving home will take steps to start a colony for the coast as soon as possible.

SENTENCES COMMUTED.—The Governor has recently commuted the following sentences of convicts: Alfred Rosender, sent from Multnomah county for the term of one year, from August 13, 1881; and Ah Gow, sent from Multnomah county for the term of five years, from March 2, 1878. Executive clemency shown in both cases on account of extra time allowed for work performed on the insane asylum building.

REGULAR MEETING SABBATHS.—The Seventh-Day Adventists will hereafter meet regularly on the Sabbath (Saturday) in Brady's hall, East Portland, for Sabbath school and worship. Sabbath school at 1 o'clock P. M. next Sabbath, and preaching immediately after by Elder A. Marshall. Preaching also on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock; subject, "Sunday, the Rival of God's Sabbath." Public cordially invited.

CLATSOP COUNTY DELEGATES.—THE OREGONIAN'S telegram from Astoria yesterday was a trifle obscure. Delegates to the state convention are: F. C. Ward, C. W. Fulton, F. J. Taylor and J. H. D. Gray. A delegate's certificate was also granted to J. Q. A. Bowlby, leaving his admission to the state convention. J. H. D. Gray was chosen chairman of the county central committee.

LARCENY OF A ROW BOAT.—Andrew Furlong, proprietor of a boarding house, was arraigned in Justice Bybee's court yesterday morning on a charge of stealing a row boat, valued at $40. The boat is claimed by B. H. Lawler, who says it was turned adrift and the defendant secured it. Furlong was held to answer in the sum of $500.

THE MUSICALE.—Last night's entertainment by the Handel & Hayden society and the Orchestral union, at Masonic hall, was attended by a brilliantly dressed and intelligent audience, which filled the room. The programme throughout was very enjoyable. More extended notice will appear in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE ALARM.—The fire alarm turned in from box 14 yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, was caused by a burning chimney in the wooden building on the southwest corner of Second and Pine streets. The department responded promptly and were about to lay hose, when ordered home by First Assistant John Kearney. No damages.

PUGH ARRESTED.—Sheriff Charlton of Linn county received advices yesterday of the arrest of one John Pugh, at Waitsburgh, W. T. Pugh has been indicted for the crime of rape in Linn county, and will be returned there for trial, the sheriff having at once secured a requisition to Gov. Newell for that purpose.

REPORT CONTRADICTED.—Harry H. Higley writes to THE OREGONIAN from the Dalles under date of April 11th that no such person as Jack Sullivan has been killed at Dufur, Wasco county, and that the correspondent who sent the news evidently did so to injure Higley's character.

NO SMALLPOX AT SPRAGUE.—A generally circulated report, that smallpox had broken out at Sprague, is not true. THE OREGONIAN last night received a telegram from its agent there that there was no foundation whatever for the rumor.

FAILED TO APPEAR.—John Thomas, who was arrested Wednesday for soliciting for the Eagle Hotel without a license, did not put in an appearance at the police court yesterday, and in consequence forfeited his bail.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

John Cran & Co. have white goods suitable for graduating dresses.

Resignations of O. Flinn and M. J. Giest presented and names ordered erased from register.

Applications for exempt certificates for Edward O'Dea and James Loten presented and referred to committee on certificates.

A GRACEFUL ACT.

Vancouver Independent.

A thousand times, more or less, we have read that corporations have no souls, but there has at last come a very honorable exception to this rule in the O. R. & N. Co., which some politicians have at times delighted in denouncing a grasping monopoly. On Saturday morning last Capt. Jas. W. Troup left Lewiston, Idaho, in command of his boat on the regular down trip. On arriving at South Texas he received a telegram informing him of his father's dangerous illness; also an offer from the O. R. & N. Co. to bring him down by special boats and trains, free of charge. In a very short time he was on another boat, bringing him down to Ainsworth, and then another to Celilo. Here a special train soon took him to The Dalles. At 12:30 on Sunday he left The Dalles on a special boat for the Cascade, and on his arrival found the S. G. Reed, steam up, awaiting his arrival, on which he was brought to Vancouver, arriving at 6:15 P. M., making the trip from The Dalles by boat in 6 and ¾ hours—one of the quickest runs on record. By this act the O. R. & N. Co. did a great kindness to Capt. Troup, who, though one of its most trusted employes, will be bound by it to the corporal on by ties that are something more than those of employment. We could cite other acts by which this big company has gained credit in caring for sick and injured men in its employ, but the one favor shown to Capt. J. W. Troup is sufficient to establish the character of the O. R. & N. Co. as humane and grateful.

The Independent should have added that this graceful favor to Capt. Troup was rendered by Capt. Geo. J. Ainsworth, superintendent of the river divisions of the O. R. & N. Co.

DEAD CHINAMAN FOUND.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PIONEER, W. T., April 12.

The body of a Chinaman, badly decomposed, was found floating in the slough at the head of Bachelor's Island on Monday, the 10th inst. The nearest justice of the peace was notified and an inquest held immediately. The verdict was to the effect that the Chinaman had been suffocated by violence as a heavy woolen cloth was found sewed tightly over his mouth and nostrils. The Celestial was about five feet high and had on knit undershirt and drawers and blue overalls. The body was buried on the bank of the slough.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena (Cal.) Sherry, Port, Amber, Riesling and Claret wines, as also his vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Sheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

LIBRARIAN OXER'S REPLY.

LIBRARY ROOMS, April 13.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Allow me to say a few words in answer to a communication in this morning's OREGONIAN entitled "A Growl about the Library," and signed "Stranger." I am rather at a loss to place the gentleman, but the only person I can call to mind who answers his description came to the library about two weeks ago, more or less, and without asking a question took a book from the shelves, quietly and cosily seated himself by the fire, and read until the library closed. The next day he came and read as before, but asked me what the terms were. I told him a dollar a month. He said he "was a stranger, under medical treatment, and would speak to the doctor about it"—though what the doctor had to do with the affair I could not clearly see. At any rate, the third day was a repetition of the first two, with one exception—he said nothing about paying dues. I thought it now time for me to speak. Therefore at 5 o'clock, when "Stranger" got up to leave I politely informed him that if he made use of the rooms he would have to pay his dues, to all of which he did not condescend to reply, but left me under the impression that he was deaf. After this "Stranger" did not honor us with another visit for some days, until about a week ago, when he returned and asked for a Mr. Sutton. I told him that no gentleman by that name was connected with the library. Without making any reply he took a book and read for an hour or so, then left. His next visit was on Saturday last. I closed the library as usual, a little after five, and left, but returned unexpectedly about six, when lo! to my utmost astonishment, who should I see there, deeply interested in that brilliant and witty paper, the Argonaut, but the "Stranger." I won't attempt to describe my feelings. I could not do them justice with the pen, but merely add that I again politely told him that the dues were a dollar a month; that I had told him so before and that it was not customary to have to speak to a gentleman twice.

Before closing, with your permission, I will correct one or two mistakes made by "Stranger." He says, the library is styled a public library. There he is in error. It is called the "Library Association of Portland," but it is as the advertisement says, "free to all upon the payment of a dollar a month."

Where did he get the information that a stranger must pay a year's subscription to see an issue of a home paper? There is no such an article as I am aware of in the constitution and by-laws.

I don't think "Stranger" was hunting for a home paper. He never asked for one and I never saw him reading a news paper except the Argonaut. On the contrary he was trying to obtain information gratis.

Pardon me for troubling you with so long a letter, but "Stranger" appealed to the public, giving his own version of the affair. In justice to the institution of which I am an humble servant, I thought I was in duty bound to place before the public my side of the case and leave the public to decide who is right and who is wrong. I am yours respectfully,

HENRY A. OXER, Librarian.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

[Vancouver Independent.]

Surgeon John M. Dickson has been assigned to duty at Fort Adams, Rhode Island.

Capt. Evan Miles, 21st Inf., who has been on the sick list, is again on active duty.

Lt. Moffatt, 2d Inf., now at Fort Coeur d'Alene, has been assigned to duty at Fort Colville.

Lt. Francis J. Kernan, 21st Inf., has left the post en route to Fort Canby for court martial duty.

Lt. Willis Wittich, 21st Inf., and wife, sailed from Port Townsend for San Francisco on Monday.

Maj. John A. Kress, department inspector general, returned from Fort Boise Tuesday evening.

Lt. T. H. Bradley, 21st infantry, will remain in Washington until June 1st before proceeding to join the regiment.

The movement of troop C, 1st Cavalry, will not be made until next month, as it will have to await the arrival of troop G before it can leave Camp Bidwell.

The report that a portion of the Klamath reservation was to be thrown open for settlement is authoritatively contradicted, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Maj. R. M. Bachelder, formerly chief quartermaster of this department, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel, and ordered from San Francisco to Washington for duty.

Capt. Edwin F. Gardner and Capt. S. Q. Robinson, of the medical department, have been assigned to duty in this department, and arrived at headquarters yesterday.

Lt. Fred. G. Schwatka, aide-de-camp on General Miles' staff, is spending a portion of his leave of absence in Chicago, the guest of Gen. Jno. C. Smith, late state treasurer of Illinois.

Fort Coeur d'Alene has at last thawed out and emerged from the mountain snows, in consequence of which the post has commenced to put on summer airs of parading, music and gardening.

Lt. O. S. Willey, for some time attached to the Wolcott, has been ordered to report on board the U. S. revenue steamer Corwin at San Francisco. Mrs. Willey will remain at Port Townsend for some time, as it is likely that the Corwin will make an arctic cruise.

Capt. Wm. H. Boyle, 21st Inf., left on the last steamer for San Francisco, in charge of the Indian "Ostekin," who is to be sent to the Indian territory to join his brother Nez Perces for killing a man on the Grand Ronde reservation. Capt. Boyle will go no farther than San Francisco.

Maj. Wm. C. Muhlenburg, paymaster U. S. A., recently appointed to fill the vacancy in the pay department, was formerly clerk for Paymaster Eckels, residing for some time in this department. He left on the outgoing steamer Sunday night, for duty in the department of Dakota.

The new roster of troops in this department has been received. It is accompanied by a map, 8x12 inches in size, of the department of the Columbia, prepared by order of Gen. N. A. Miles, under direction of Lt. Thos. W. Symons, corps of engineers, by A. Downing, topographical assistant. It is undoubtedly the most accurate small map of this country ever issued.

Col. Henry C. Hodges, well known in this department, has been relieved from duty as chief quartermaster of the department of Arizona, and goes to New York city as depot quartermaster. Gen. C. G. Sawtelle has been relieved in the department of the south, and goes to New York as chief division quartermaster on Gen. Hancock's staff. Major Geo. H. Weeks has been relieved from duty at Leavenworth, and goes to San Francisco to relieve Col. R. M. Bachelder, who reports at Washington.

THE CUTTING AFFRAY AT ASTORIA.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ASTORIA, April 13.

The unfortunate quarrel between two well known and respected residents of this city, resulting in the infliction of a most dangerous wound on the person of Mr. Alexander Lowne, is deeply regretted by all. It appears that Lowne had been engaged to do some hauling from C. H. Bain's sash and door factory, and young Bain, who works for his father, assisted in the loading. A difference of opinion caused angry words, which culminated in blows. Bain says Lowne struck at his son with a dray pin, which, if it had struck his head, as was apparently intended, would have killed him. But Johnny Bain got away, and, seizing a hand ax, threw it at Lowne, striking him in the abdomen and groin, inflicting a wound six inches long and four deep, cutting through the peritoneum and slicing off a piece of the pelvic bone. Drs. Kinney and Tuttle dressed and sewed up the wound, inserting the necessary drainage tubes. The patient has every attention needed at the Sisters' hospital, and Dr. Kinney says that the wound, though a very dangerous one, is not necessarily fatal.

Don't forget to call on Woods the Hatter, 143 First street, and see what he has to show you in the way of nobby straw hats.

HANDS ALL ROUND

Mr. Tennyson's new patriotic ballad, to which our despatches have made allusion, runs as follows:

First pledge our queen, my friends, and then
A health to England, every guest,
He best will serve the race of men
Who loves his native country best!
May freedom's oak forever last,
With larger life from day to day:
He loves the present and the past
Who lops the moulder'd branch away.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

To all the loyal hearts who long
To keep our English empire whole!
To all our noble sons, the strong
New England of the Southern Pole!
To England under Indian skies,
To those dark millions of her realm!
To Canada, whom we love and prize,
Whatever statesman hold the helm.
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

To all our statesmen so they be
True leaders of the land's desire!
To both our houses, may they see
Beyond the borough and the shire
We sailed wherever ship could sail,
We founded many a mighty state,
Pray God our greatness may not fail
Through craven fears of being great;
Hands all round! God the traitor's hope confound!
To the great cause of freedom drink, my friends,
And the great name of England round and round.

M. CHABRILLAT'S ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

From the London Daily Telegraph.

A sad case of attempted suicide has come to light in the theatrical world. M. Henri Chabrillat, the manager of the Ambigu theater, shot himself on Wednesday evening, inflicting a wound which places his life in some danger. The circumstances of the case are related as follows: On Wednesday afternoon M. Chabrillat arrived at his theater too late to witness the rehearsal of a new play, "Jack Tempete," which is to be brought out there shortly. He then returned to his apartment on the Boulevard Poissonière. There, having evidently formed the intention of committing suicide, he wrote several letters, including, it is said, one to his mother. A few minutes after 7 Mlle. Massin, one of the artists of Ambigu, came to call on M. Chabrillat, who upon hearing the bell ring took up a revolver and fired a shot into his breast. He fell full length on to the floor, and when Mlle. Massin entered the room, had only strength to murmur the words, "I have missed; it is terrible," and to protest feebly against a doctor being sent for.

This request was, of course, not complied with, and a medical man was at once called. On the doctor entering, M. Chabrillat, who had been raised to the sofa, exclaimed, "It was an accident. I hurt myself playing with a revolver." The medical man, however, who was not to be deceived, quietly replied, "No, sir; you have attempted to commit suicide." An examination took place at once, and it was discovered that the bullet, missing the heart, had pierced the body and lodged in the back. M. Péan, surgeon, was, however, able to extract it without much difficulty. M. Chabrillat is still in a critical condition from internal hemorrhage. The fortunate failure of the attempt is attributed to the fact that it was made very hurriedly, M. Chabrillat not having finished his letters when Mlle. Massin rang the bell. As regards the motives for this desperate act on the part of so young a man, it is believed that his mind was oppressed by momentary difficulties connected with the theater. Since the withdrawal of the Assommoir and Nana, the Ambigu has not scored any great success, and the manager, who had been at great expense, is said to be considerably in debt. Great hopes were built on Jack Tempete, but the creditors showed no inclination to wait until its production for a settlement of their claims, and an application in bankruptcy was anticipated.

New School of Philosophy.

"Are you busy?" asked a man entering the Gazette office and depositing himself on a chair.

"No, never busy," said the city editor. "Always have time to hear long stories, particularly those in which Jim and John figure, and when Ike, the neighboring wit, tells how he came to town and cheated a Hebrew gentleman who swore that he wouldn't sell the coat for less than ten dollars, but who finally let Ike have the garment for seventy-five cents and a promise to call again."

The man was bored. He put his elbows on the table and looked sorrowful.

"I am the author of a new school of philosophy," he said, "but I have found no disciples. The world is too rapid. The present becomes the past before I can make any one understand me. When I explain myself you may consider me insane."

"Whom did you kill him?"

"I have killed no one."

"Then you are not insane."

"Since the days of Chaucer there have been a great many unusual men in the world. From that time until the present day a great many children have died before they arrived at the age of ten years. Now, sir, I have taken up the belief that if all the people who have lived had died, and if all the children that died had lived, the world would have had its Shakespeare, its Bacon, its Benton and its Napoleon."

"How about Oscar Wilde?"

"I say that the world would have been just as well off. We might not have had the railroad, for invention is an accident, but we would have had something just as complete. America would have been discovered, New York would have been built—"

"And would the jury have brought in a verdict of guilty as indicted?"

"I say, that nothing would have been lost. Now, the souls of those children that died young, what became of them? At what time, I ask, does the soul enter the body? can'remain? Are infant Shakespeares to be raised up at the resurrection? Will they continue the process of teething, and will their mothers walk around with them? At what time I ask, sir, will the body arise? In what shape? Will it be young, or will it arise with wrinkles of age upon its brow? Can the man who has been eaten by cannibals arise?"

"Wait, will be back in a minute," and the city editor went back and requested the foreman to help him eject a crazy man. When he returned he found that the man had stolen his pipe and a new book, "The Three Links of Sausage, or The Spoiled Ham."

Pennsylvania Politics.

(Philadelphia Cor. St. Paul Pioneer-Press.)

While the anti-Cameron faction of the republican party is large and powerful, and will eventually push the Cameron clan to the wall, the democrats are divided among themselves in a much more serious manner. There are two factions—Randall and anti-Randall—and the fight between them is even more bitter than that between Cameron and Wolf. This antagonism was temporarily lost sight of in the contest last fall, because that contest was a phenomenal one and kept all other issues in the background for the time being. Now the breach appears, and especially here in Philadelphia. The tactics employed by ex-Speaker Randall and his satellites are as plain as daylight to those versed in the customs of politicians in Philadelphia. Randall wants to become chairman of the democratic committee of the city. The position is a decidedly influential one. It can be used to advantage in shaping the politics of the commonwealth. But it is not easy to get and Randall knows it. Therefore he is leaving no stone unturned in his efforts to procure it. He is resorting to the same tricks which were used so long and so well by the forces here in the city on the entire republican side.

The spectacle presented is therefore something after this fashion: The very system of corruption which the democracy of the state, spurred on by the independent republicans, have been denouncing, and which is believed to be wiped out forever from the annals of the republican party of Pennsylvania, is appearing in full force among the leaders of the Randall faction. The ex-speaker, who is held in such high esteem outside of the Quaker city, is employing some of the most unscrupulous men to further his ends and allowing the most corrupt means to be employed. If he is elected chairman, which is doubtful, it will be almost surely by unfair methods. In his eagerness to obtain what he desires, and get the political machinery of the state, and if possible the machinery of the democratic party in the nation, he overlooks everything else. His ambition overreaches itself, and will surely bring the entire democracy of Pennsylvania into disrepute.

It Cures Conceit.

Deuster, a Wisconsin congressman, has a true idea of the congressman's power and position. In an after-dinner speech he said, recently: "My experience in that body has taught me the same thing it did a certain judge, who said to me once, 'Deuster, a man thinks himself awful big at home, but just let him get here once, and take his seat in congress, and inside of four weeks you can buy him for a [illegible].' That was my experience, too." And that is the experience of pretty much every young man who goes to Washington.

He Overdid It.

Yesterday afternoon a man from Park City came into the Cliff House considerably excited, and inquired if a certain person was stopping there. He explained that the man had "done him dirt," and he was anxious to lick him. Finding that the man had just left the house he rushed out after him, and finding him on Tribune avenue, walked up and announced that he had come all the way from Park City to lick him, and accordingly he started in. In a few minutes he had blackened both the man's eyes, walked all over him and reduced him to a general wreck. When he had finished the job he stood the man up against the wall of Walker's bank and remarked:

"Now, you dressed contemptible lop-eared [illegible], I want you to understand that I consider you the most infamous whelp that I ever saw. You dirty little cur, I—"

"Hold on," said the man who had just been licked, taking off his coat. "I think that after thrashing a man you've got no right to abuse him. I can stand a licking, but I won't stand abuse from any living man, no matter how much he weighs. Now I'm going to lick you."

He was as good as his word, and started in with the most business-like air imaginable and knocked his late victor into the gutter. Every time he got up he knocked him down with "Blast me, I can't stand abuse." When he got through with the Park City man the crowd thought he was a pile of rags and mud.

"Now look here, my friend," said the last victor: "next time you lick a man let well enough alone. Don't abuse him. You handled yourself well enough while you were licking me, but you overdid the abuse."

A "Big Injun" Spree at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Some of the visiting Indian chiefs who came here the other day to have a consultation with the secretary of the interior, having appeared at the department one day during their visit in a state of intoxication, the commissioner of Indian affairs proposes to institute proceedings against the parties who sold them the liquor, if they can be found. Section 2138 of the revised statutes provides that every person (except an Indian in the Indian country) who sells, exchanges, gives, barters, or disposes of any spirituous liquors or wine to any Indian under the charge of any Indian superintendent or agent, shall be punishable by imprisonment for not more than two years, and by a fine of not more than $300. "I think think this is the last Indian powwow we shall have while I am commissioner," said Commissioner Price to-day, in talking about the Sioux delegation. "It is perfect nonsense their coming here. They don't know what they want when they start, and the longer they stay stay here the less they know, and it is only a waste of time and money."

Mr. Paul W. Hasluck, in a paper on the art of turning, says that an attempt to trace its progress would not only be wearisome, but very speculative, as there are few indisputable data on which to base a connected history. But the rude appliances of the past stand out in striking contrast to those of the present. Long before the flywheel worked by a crank was invented or used, lathes were driven by the aid of a spring pole, and also by bow—quite different from the modern drill-bow. Now turnery—both the art itself as well as the objects produced—has been so perfected that it seems difficult to limit the range of its application. The lathe is itself a production of a former lathe. As skill has increased, so have the productions of the lathe increased in perfection. The center lathe gave the means of making the mandrel lathe, and the latter gave birth to the screw-cutting lathe; and so on through all the innumerable varieties of the tool now in everyday use. If lathes larger than the largest now used are wanted, they can be made on the machines now available. If mechanism is to be refined to a greater perfection than now exists, the tools to do it can be made on the lathes we now possess.

A gentleman from New London, Ralls county, Missouri, tells the following story, which he vouches for: He says that there is a colored man in New London, who for years has claimed that he had a scorpion under his skin, and that it crawled from place to place over his body. A few days since Doctors Sprague and Ralls, of London, a couple of scientists, coaxed the darkey to submit to a surgical operation for the removal of the varmint. They distinctly traced the animal under the darkey's skin from his waist over the left shoulder, and thence back again to a position between the thigh and knee of the right leg. Clasping the limb above and below where the animal seemed to be, they administered chloroform to the man, and, making an incision in the leg, took therefrom a living reptile—not a scorpion, but something resembling a lizard. It was placed in a vial of alcohol, and the doctors have had several offers for its purchase. The darkey avers that a colored man conjured him when he was a boy, and that he has been tormented with this animal ever since.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The druggists at Calhoun, Iowa, sold alcoholic liquors as a beverage. One of the purchasers went home drunk. His sister thereupon entered the shop with a club, and smashed half the bottles in it before she could be prevented.

Isaac Shelby, the first Kentucky governor, is buried on the farm where in 1776 he raised the first crop in the state, and the grave is in a neglected condition. The legislature is asked to make a small appropriation to put the place in order.

ODDS AND ENDS.

"I know," said a little girl to her elder sister's young man at the supper table, "that you will join in our society for the protection of little birds, because mamma says you are very fond of larks."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Ella, is your father at home?" said a bashful lover to his sweetheart. "I want to propose something to him." "No, Clarence, papa is not at home, but I am. Couldn't you propose to me just as well?" And he did with perfect success.

"There is something about Pingrey that I admire," said Brown. "Yes," replied Fogg; "there is something about him that I admire, too—something in the morning paper, which says he has gone to Europe for a couple of years."—Boston Transcript.

"Two years ago," according to a St. Louis paper, "Jay Gould cared nothing for Missouri. Now he controls $100,000,000 of corporation capital and 40,000 employes in this state; the real head of seven railroads, the telegraph monopoly, iron interests, river transportation, elevators, etc. He is able to elect Missouri's legislature, make our laws and control the state."

THURSDAY EVENING, April 13.

There is absolutely nothing to note in the local wheat market. Grain here is almost nearly all sold and so no business has been done during the week. The Easter holiday has had an effect on English market during the week and business has not yet resumed its natural current. It is impossible to tell from the delayed and unsatisfactory telegrams received just where the Liverpool market is.

There is no change in the charters market.

THE ENGLISH GRAIN MARKET.

The Mark Lane Express in its review of the grain trade for last week says: The supply of native wheats is irregular and very little business is reported. Trade is generally firm with limited demand. Prime samples improved 6d@1s per quarter. Foreign almost nominal. Trade supply moderate. Scarcity of American red at Liverpool caused occasional advance. Business off coast active, but sellers are rather shy. Two cargoes arrived and 16 sold. Floating bulk is declining. No inquiry for cargoes on passage. For shipment supply four [illegible]; market quiet, unchanged. In foreign business small. In barley, fine sorts unchanged, indifferent qualities neglected. Foreign limited in demand. Oats sold readily, foreign unchanged. Sales of English wheat during the week 51,323 quarters at 45s, against 3453 quarters at 41s 4d for the corresponding week last year.

Portland Produce Prices.

Sales of standard brands of flour during the past week have been very large. Stocks of superfine and all country grades are rather light. We anticipate a brisk trade for some time to come. Walla Walla and Eastern Oregon grades are in good demand for shipping. Oats are again beginning to weaken. Advices from country warehouses in this state indicate that large stocks are held and the market here has been considerably affected thereby. There is no change to note in barley. Brewers seem pretty well supplied. There is very little choice timothy hay in market. The poorer qualities coming in are very slow of sale. Mill feed continues very scarce. There is not half enough bran in store to supply the local demand. Cured meats are unchanged. Prices, however, are firm and the demand is good. Country hams properly cured and well trimmed find very ready sale. Shoulders also are wanted. Rib bacon, however, is difficult to place in the market. Lard in kegs is rather scarce and prices may advance. There is a little more inquiry for dried apples, but there have been no sales of any consequence yet. Nothing new in dried plums, which are still hard sale. No change to note in hops. Brewers, both here and in San Francisco, seem to be well supplied, and consequently sales are difficult to make. Hides are very firm and the demand is good for all qualities and grades. Fancy, fresh roll butter is rather scarce. Receipts from California have been light, and as there is no choice Oregon butter in market the demand is greater than the supply. Onions are very dull sale, the demand being very limited and only for home consumption. Receipts of eggs during the past week have been rather large. Sales have been made readily, however, and prices continue firm. Cheese is very scarce. The supply is wholly from California. Apples are almost out of market. Receipts of chickens are light and prices continue high. Columbia river salmon in half barrels is still scarce. Potatoes are very dull sale. To-day's advices from California are very unfavorable, consequently little or nothing is doing in spuds here. New potatoes are coming in at San Francisco and we expect prices to again decline. Shingles are in good demand.

Kansas Crops.

TOPEKA, April 12.—The state board of agriculture reports the following in relation to the winter wheat crop in Kansas. It is estimated there has been a decrease of the acreage sown, as compared with last year. The greater portion of this decrease is in the eastern part of the state where farmers have the last three years had bad luck in growing it. It is estimated in round numbers that the area will amount to not less than 500,000 acres. Winter wheat looks uniformly at present, and all correspondents agree that a heavy crop will be harvested, provided the outlook continues as encouraging as at the present. The weather has been so far favorable. The secretary of the state board says the loss from freezing, and other causes, will not amount to over [illegible] per cent. A majority of correspondents agree that early sown wheat promises a greater yield than that put in later in the fall, and where late sowing is good they are almost unanimous in the opinion that a favorable winter alone accounts for the fact. Taking altogether, winter wheat never looked better. Prosperity in this line of farming is not confined to any one section, but is practically universal.

Illinois Crops.

Reports of the state board of agriculture show that there seldom was a better showing for winter wheat than on the first of April. Five hundred correspondents have been heard from and the condition in the northern division of the state promises increased yield of two per cent, greater yield per acre. An average yield is predicted in the central division, and an increase of 3 per cent in the southern division. There is a percentage of about [illegible] per cent. flooded out, and 7 to 10 per cent. winter killed in the east division.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure-all," but a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really [illegible] or phases of that grand generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

FOR RAILROAD TIES

WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL 12 M., MAY 15, 1882, for furnishing two hundred and thirty-two thousand (232,000) cross-ties along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Emory and Burrard Inlet, viz:

Twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Port Moody station, or at a point on the line of said railway between Port Moody and Pitt River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Pitt River, or between Pitt River and Kanaka Creek.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Kanaka Creek, or between Kanaka Creek and Stave River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Stave River, or between Stave River and Harrison River.

Other forty thousand (40,000) thereof at Hatzic River, or between Hatzic River and Harrison River.

Other twenty-seven thousand (27,000) thereof at Harrison River, or between Harrison River and the lower end of Maria Slough.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the lower end of Maria Slough, or between said lower end of Maria Slough and Tunnel "C" of said railway, which tunnel is about 15 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other ten thousand (10,000) thereof at said Tunnel "C," or between said Tunnel "C" and Tunnel "D," which latter tunnel is about 11 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other fifteen thousand (15,000) thereof at Tunnel "D" aforesaid, or between said Tunnel "D" and Tunnel "F" on said railway.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at Tunnel "F," or between said Tunnel "F" and Emory's Bar, or at Emory's Bar.

All such sleepers or cross-ties shall be delivered alongside the railway and within fifty feet of the center line of the track, and shall be piled up so as not to interfere with the work of construction.

The bottom of the pile shall be as nearly level as practicable on a level with the grade of the railway track, and the said pile shall be so made as to permit of ready inspection and counting; and wherever such piles shall be made near water lines, bottom of water of rivers the same shall be placed in such manner that the bottom of the pile shall at all events be above the level of high water.

It will be necessary to deliver at least fifteen thousand (15,000) acceptable ties per month from date of entering the contract until completion of same.

The ties must be smoothly hewed or sawed, free from all wane, bark, chipped or shaken, [illegible], both ends, eight feet long, [illegible] on two opposite sides to a uniform thickness of six inches, the distance between same not less than six inches, [illegible] width and six inches at [illegible].
